

Sponsor a book 2016

support some of the best contemporary Buddhist publishing

Windhorse Publications seeks to provide insights and guidance that we can all draw upon, through contemporary Buddhist books for the beginner through to the experienced practitioner. But funding these books' production and promotion has become more difficult, and publishing in the 21st century is about adapting to challenging conditions. One way we are meeting the challenges is by asking our readers to sponsor our new books. Since 2013 we have had success with our sponsorship campaigns, and we are grateful to all those who have already helped us get six new books out.

Now you too can help us by sponsoring one or more of these books:

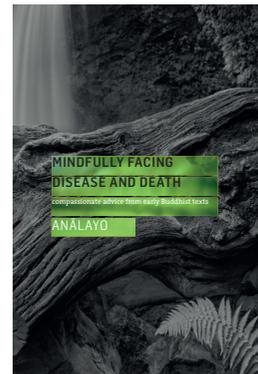

Mindful Emotion: a short course in kindness – by Dr Paramabandhu Groves and Dr Jed Shamel

Drawing on their clinical experience as well as their Buddhist practice, the authors have developed an eight-week practical course in cultivating kindness, intended to complement other mindfulness-based approaches. In this burgeoning field of applied mindfulness, their aim is to emphasize the importance of the heart, introducing the reader to ways of approaching kindness-based meditation, as well as to how to put kindness into practice in daily life.

Mindfully Facing Disease and Death: compassionate advice from early Buddhist texts – by Anālayo

In this wonderfully accessible and compassionate book Bhikkhu Anālayo illuminates classic Buddhist teachings and offers practical counsel for facing death with clarity and kindness. Frank Ostaseski
An invaluable and extraordinary resource on the profound teachings by the Buddha on dying, death, and grieving. Roshi Joan Halifax

Our fundraising target for each book is £7,000. With your help, we can publish these insightful new books and encourage the spread of Buddhist teachings in the world.

- Giving £30 or more to an individual book means you will receive the print book and the eBook download on publication
